

Rujia Bi, MARB

Understanding zooplankton dynamics in a changing Galveston Bay

My thesis research focuses on testing the effects of environmental factors on zooplankton population. My research includes a combination of field work and laboratory work. In field, I take zooplankton samples from Gulf of Mexico along with environmental factors, including temperature, salinity, chlorophyll concentration etc.

This is a photo taken during my field trip to Flower Garden Banks. During this trip, I caught the first fish in my life.