Career & Educational Opportunities

Maritime Studies (MAST) offers students a unique opportunity to examine the varied ways that humans use and impact coastal and maritime environments. It is well suited for students who seek to understand the vital and synergistic relationship humans have with the sea. With 40% of the world's population living within 60 miles of a coastline, there are a myriad of interests and demand for jobs dependent on coastal areas, such as:

- Energy exploration and use
- Preservation and conservation of culture
- Underwater archaeology
- Commercial fisheries
- Museums and their management
- Policy changes

The effects of rising sea levels and changing coastal climates on coastal communities

By studying the history, archaeology, literature, communication, and politics of maritime peoples and cultures from ancient times to present, Maritime Studies graduates gain a comprehensive understanding of the issues at stake, while achieving an excellent broad-based interdisciplinary education with a distinctive, international emphasis.
