

Nicolas Ciro Oliverie '02 and Sons Zachary Glen Oliverie and Nicolas Biaggio Oliverie Maritime Transportation Endowed Scholarship

Established in 2022 by Nicolas Ciro Oliverie '02

Nicolas Oliverie '02 received a bachelor's in marine transportation from Texas A&M University at Galveston. After graduation, he was activated by the U.S. Coast Guard Reserves twice, first during Operation Iraqi Freedom and later for the implementation of the International Ship and Port Facility. Today, he works in deepwater oil and gas exploration. His work has taken him to four continents, sixteen vessels, four drilling contractors, and four shipyards.

To thank the school that played a pivotal role in his career, Nicolas established a maritime transportation scholarship named after him and his sons, Zachary Glen and Nicolas Biaggio. He included their names on the gift to reflect his love and remind them that they'll "always be Oliverie boys", dear to his heart, no matter where life takes them. Through his scholarship, Nicolas hopes to assist Aggies by the Sea who pursue degrees in marine transportation with a license option and who actively engage in volunteer work within the Galveston community.