

Stolt Tankers Endowed Scholarship

Established in 2024 by Stolt Tankers

Stolt Tankers, a global leader in chemical and bulk liquid transportation, has created the Stolt Tankers Endowed Scholarship at Texas A&M University at Galveston to strengthen its partnership with the University and support future maritime professionals. The company, which had previously awarded annual scholarships, chose to establish this endowment to provide long-term support for students and demonstrate its commitment to higher education and the maritime industry.

The scholarship is designed to help students in key departments such as maritime business administration, maritime transportation, and marine engineering. Stolt Tankers believe that investing in these students is crucial for the development of leadership, innovation, and sustainability in the maritime industry. By supporting their education, the company contributes to the growth of a skilled workforce that will benefit both Stolt Tankers and the broader maritime sector.
